

GROOTVADERSBOSCH
CONSERVANCY

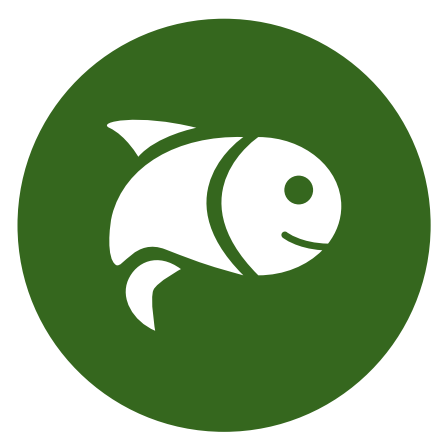

Save the Tradouw Redfin

The Tradouw Redfin is critically endangered and survives in a few pools in the Tradouw Pass and Barrydale area.

The Grootvadersbosch Conservancy is working with private landowners to protect these and other freshwater fish.

The Redfin is threatened by:

Invasive alien fish introduced into the rivers

Water pollution from upstream users

Reduced water flow from over-abstraction

River habitat destruction and growth of invasive plants.

Through the GASPP-project we are:

- Learning more about these secretive fish
- Teaching children about water health
- Working with local artists to raise awareness.

You can also help!

For more info and to donate:

www.gvbconservancy.co.za

The Grootvadersbosch Aquatic Species Protection Project (GASPP) is proudly supported by:

